THE ROSEFOREST HOTEL- A LUXURY GETAWAY

I woke up on Friday morning ready for my trip to Newvale. The Roseforest Hotel contacted me last week and asked if I'd like to write a review - of course I said yes!

When I arrived, it was pouring with rain. I hadn't even thought to bring an umbrella, which was a brilliant way to begin my holiday! The hotel is very close to the train station but it was raining so hard I still managed to get soaked.

I approached the building with some hesitation. It looked perfectly posh! But when I entered the lobby, I was greeted by a friendly receptionist, who was so warm and welcoming that I completely forgot about how intimidated I'd felt upon arriving just moments ago.

Check-in was a breeze. Before I knew it, I was standing outside my room. I'd read the brochure before arriving and was expecting something truly special. I wasn't disappointed! I really did feel like royalty when I opened the door and set eyes on what was inside. The bed was huge and there was even a chandelier! At £200 a night, you certainly get what you pay for. I couldn't wait to get settled in, but first, there were a few things I needed to try.

I headed down to the hotel's spa, Serene Sensations, and selected the Perfect Pampering Package. It's quite pricey at £75 but it was totally worth it. The spa's team were friendly and professional.

Feeling rested, relaxed and rejuvenated, I headed to the Roseforest Restaurant for a sumptuous three-course meal. Although it was rather expensive (£45), the portion sizes were huge so it was totally worth the money. Their wild garlic chicken was to die for, and I have never tasted anything as delicious as their almond and butterscotch cheesecake. When it was time for bed, I snuggled into my duck feather duvet and it felt like I was sleeping on a cloud. Want to have the best night's sleep ever? You have to check out these sheets!

To top it all off, after arriving home I received a delivery from the hotel – a beautiful gift basket filled with samples of face and body products from their spa. They even included a note to let me know that I am welcome to stay there again any time and included a discount. I will definitely be going back! I would highly recommend the Roseforest Hotel to anyone. It's a luxury destination, that's for sure, but one which is absolutely worth the price.

This is the end of the booklet.
